Stick Horse Rodeo Coming to the Children's Museum of Denver

Denver, Co – Buckaroos and buckarettas, ages 3-6, can help kick off the 2010 National Western Stock Show by riding in a Stick Horse Rodeo at the Children's Museum of Denver on Monday, January 11, 2010, at 10:30 a.m. The action gets wild and woolly when the bucking chute flies open and the kids come spinning out on stick horses from the National Western's string of surly rodeo nags. Traditional "rough stock" events include bronc and bull riding. For the more refined cowhands there will be steer roping, pole bending and barrel racing. The contestants may be pint-sized but this crowd-pleasing shindig serves up full-sized excitement for everyone.

Don't forget your camera because National Western volunteers will deck the kids out in hats, chaps and back tags so they'll look just like the professionals who compete in the rodeos during the Stock Show.

Participation is free but entries are limited to the first 30 youngsters to sign up. Registration opens 30 minutes before the event. The renowned Stick Horse Rodeo will also be held in the Activity Pavilion at the National Western Complex every weekend afternoon until January 24th.

About the Children's Museum of Denver

Since its inception in 1973, the Children's Museum of Denver has been a place that ignites and fosters a great love of learning. Our mission is to create a community where children and their grownups learn through play.

The Museum provides rich play experiences and a dynamic learning environment to help young children prepare for their future. The Children's Museum of Denver is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization that relies heavily on the support of Museum friends.

The Children's Museum of Denver is located at I-25 and 23rd Avenue (exit 211), in the Platte River Valley. For more details about the Museum, and its programs and events please visit www.mychildsmuseum.org.
